1. About data

Equinotes collects limited data about you and your horses. The collected data are necessary for the website's functionality as a helping tool for you in your daily training. The data we collect can be seen in section 2 of this document.

It is only the founders and developers of Equinotes that will have access to the collected data – no one else will have access to your data. Your data will NOT be sold to or shared with a third party and if you delete your account all your data will be deleted except for your email address. We keep your email address to identify you if you should choose to create a new account. This is due to the three months free trial period, that you will only have access to once.

Your data will be used in connection with internal statistics, error corrections, problem solutions and of course for your account on Equinotes that only you and your associated account can access.

Our server is hosted by Webhosting.dk.

2. What data do we collect

The only data that is collected is what you enter at our website. That means that no data about you will be collected by a third party, social media or similar. You are 100 % in control of which data we have about you.

Below you will find a list of the data we collect:

- The device you use to access the website: This is necessary in order for you to get the best experience regardless of which device you use; for example computer, smartphone or tablet
- Name: To identify your sites and mails
- Mail: Making the site and mails personal addressed to you.
- Information about your horse(s): Including name, description and picture. This is so any accounts associated with yours can see information about the horse. Description and picture is optional.
- Username and password: Will only be used for you to log into your account. Your password is blurred in the database so nobody can see it, not even the founders and developers of Equinotes.
